

It is not in the public's interest to have media ownership concentrated in fewer hands. We are served by a variety of viewpoints competing, not one or two viewpoints.

Also costs for advertisers will be more rational if there is competition, not collusion.